

COUPLE MINISTRY IS...

. . . a training program designed to assist parishes in developing a marriage preparation program that gives individual attention to every engaged couple.

. . . a style of marriage instruction that enables any parish to have its own resource for marriage preparation, even if there are only a few weddings each year.

Parishes with many marriages annually can prepare a team of married couples for this ministry. This has the added advantage of offering team support at the parish level.

. . . a continuing education opportunity for those couples who are giving Pre-Cana presentations or involved in other kinds of marriage preparation, such as small group instruction.

Parish sponsorship is required. This is a parish-centered ministry in which the minister couple works closely with the pastoral staff in preparing engaged couples for marriage.
